ATTEMPT TO "CAN" THE MAYOR

At Monday night's meeting of the town council Mayor Knight again insisted on the suspension or dismissal of the town's electrician. There was a reaction, however, for the council passed a resolution asking for the resignation of William Knight as mayor. Bill still holds to his post and suggests sending the keys of the city to the deputy minister of municipal affairs, asking him to send a commissioner to control what's left.

NEW BISHOP OF CALGARY CONSECATED AT TORONTO

Toronto, Feb. 19.—In the presence of five archbishops, fourteen bishops, nineteen monsignori and more than three hundred other Roman Catholic clergy from various parts of Canada and the United States, Right Rev. Francis P. Carroll, former president of the St. Augustine's Seminary and the first native of Toronto to be elevated to the episcopate, was consecrated as Bishop of Calgary at St. Michael's cathedral here this morning.

The impressive ceremony was preceded by a colorful procession of church dignitaries in their robes of office along a canopied walk from St. Michael's palace to the cathedral, decorated with ensigns, flags and drapes of papal yellow and white and episcopal green.

Bishop Carroll is a nephew of Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fraser of the China missions, and of Rev. William Fraser, chaplain of Loretto Abbey, Armour Heights.

The new bishop will leave for Calgary next month, when he will be installed as bishop at St. Mary's cathedral.

George Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kerr, of Blaimore, playing a violin, won the amateur radio competition at Lethbridge on Thursday last with a total of 90 marks. The programme was sponsored over CJOJ by C. Sartoris, of Blaimore Motors, and the Imperial Motors of Lethbridge. Alex. McInnis, of Bellevue, attained second place with his old-time orchestra.

WILFRED WOLSTENHOLME

HOLME PASSES

Wilfred Wolstenholme, one of the old timers of the district, passed away suddenly in his room at the Greenhill hotel on Monday morning.

Following his business as a taxi driver, when he was on the job till late Saturday, when he took to his bed upon return from a trip to Pincher Creek. He developed a chill, resulting in pneumonia.

Mr. Wolstenholme was fifty-five years of age, and is survived by two daughters, residing in Vancouver; a brother, Fred, at Bellevue, and another residing at Okanagan Falls, B.C.

The remains were held till today, pending arrival of the two daughters from Vancouver and the brother from Okanagan Falls. The daughters arrived here on Wednesday, and the brother today. Funeral takes place this afternoon at 2.30, the remains to be laid to rest beside those of his wife, who predeceased him quite a number of years ago. Service will be held at the United church.

The late Mr. Wolstenholme had been a resident of the district for about thirty-nine years. His daughters received their education at the local school.

MRS. S. SUTHERLAND

PASSES AT BELLEVUE

Bellevue was shocked when it became known on Saturday evening that Mrs. S. Sutherland had passed away. She was in her usual good health up to Friday afternoon, when she was seized with a heart attack. The remains were taken to High River, where burial took place on Tuesday afternoon.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband, several daughters and sons, some in Bellevue and others at High River.

PASS CITIZENS BEREAVED

Charles DeWolfe Macdonald, aged 83, for many years a prominent mining expert, died at his home in Chignecto, Nova Scotia, on Wednesday, last, following a long period of failing health.

Among his surviving relatives are three sons, William and Noble, of Bellevue, Alberta, and Hector Macdonald, of Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Burrows, of Coleman, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dora, to Robert Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Thompson, of Blaimore, the marriage to take place the end of February.

Mr. Justice J. R. Boyle, of the Supreme Court of Alberta, died at Ottawa on Saturday of bronchial pneumonia. He had not been in good health for some time past and decided some months ago to go to the West Indies for his health, and accompanied by Mrs. Boyle, started east. He was taken seriously ill in Ottawa about two months ago and was forced to go to hospital, where he remained till his death. He had resided in Edmonton for nearly thirty-two years. The remains were brought back to Edmonton for burial.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Clark, wife of Charles Clark, editor of the High River Times, passed away at High River on Sunday morning. She is survived by her husband, son Charles and daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Soby, at High River; also the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Charles Swantek, Bay City, Michigan; Mrs. A. A. Ballache, Mrs. F. L. Watt and F. D. McDowell, of High River. Mrs. Clark was born in Bay City, the daughter of Hon. Archibald McDonald. She spent some years in New York, and came as a bride to High River, in 1906.

YE POOR RURAL EDITOR

HAS TO CONTENT

WITH HUMAN FRAILTIES

Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister tieth the knot and getteth 10 bones therefor. The groom standeth the editor off for a year's subscription. All flesh is grass and in due time the wife goeth to the boneyard. The minister handeth the burial ceremony and getteth his bit. The undertaker and even the grave diggers get theirs. The good-natured editor printeth a long death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cult of poetry, a free ad for the undertaker and the doctor, and a card of thanks from the family of a departed. And the editor forgetteth to read the proof of the article, and the darned thing is published with a heading which readeth: "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place." And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor, with exceeding great vigor. And they pulleth out all their advertisements and refuseth to pay for their subscriptions. And they swinged the hammer upon the third and fourth generation.—Ex.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

FROM EDMONTON

(By T. B. Windroos)

Edmonton, Alta. (Press Gallery), Feb. 17.—The week in the Alberta legislature has been a rather one-sided business, no opposition member speaks the speech of W. R. Howson, K. C., Liberal leader, last week, taking part in the debate on the speech from the throne. Only Social Credit members have taken the floor. It is said the government is quite ready to bring down its estimates and that is why the debate is being prolonged. On the opposition side the members are saying they will not reply to speeches from back benchers who speak for nobody but themselves, but as soon as any cabinet minister arises to the occasion they will reply. And so the house is being given a series of lectures on the aims, hopes, possibilities and benefits of Social Credit. Probably those not as familiar with the new economic philosophy are being educated in a practical way.

It was stated, in reply to a question put by J. J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary, to Hon. Charles Cockroft, that no steps have yet been taken by the government to meet payments of provincial saving certificates. These have been suspended since August last.

Answering a question asked by D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer, said Alberta's bond obligations maturing this year amounted to $21,250,000. Of this sum to be refinanced $16,880,000 is owed to the Dominion government for loans advanced to the province. The balance is made up of a bond maturity of $3,200,000 on April 1, and one for $1,250,000 on November 1.

The budget for 1936 is due to be brought down in a few days. Premier Aberhart and Hon. E. C. Manning said. It will probably reach the house about Friday. That will be the real beginning of the main tussle in the legislature, with cabinet ministers and members of the opposition taking part in a spirited discussion. No forecast of what is contained in the budget is possible at present.

Among the two dozen bills that have been introduced, and seven of them given second reading, the most important is one to amend the Municipal Hospitals Act. It provides that any corporation which is a ratepayer is empowered to nominate one person who is an officer or employee of the corporation, as a ratepayer in the district for the purposes of the act. It also empowers the board to fix the amount of hospital tax normally required in respect of one ratepayer.

Information on the cost of Major C. H. Douglas, reconstruction adviser, under his two-year contract was asked by G. H. Van Allen, Liberal, and the request was agreed to by the government. John Irwin, Calgary, Conservative, wanted to know whether any negotiations were going on between the government and the salaries for the staff of the provincial telephones, and Hon. H. A. Fallow replied that there were none, though engineers from a New York financial interest had been given leave to investigate the system. A request for the tabling of all documents covering the incorporation of the Albertan Publishing Company Limited, was refused by Hon. W. J. Hugill on the ground that all the information is available in the proper department without any limits for whoever wanted to get it.

It was revealed by a return made at the request of D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, that Alberta's loans from banks amounted to $5,700,000, which has not been increased since the present government came into office. Security held by the Imperial Bank comprises an assignment of the amount due the province by the C.P.R. and C.N.R. on the northern railway lines, which is approximately $5,000,000. Replying to another question by D. M. Duggan, Hon. Charles Cockroft said the amount of the school lands fund, turned over to the province with the transfer of the natural resources was $9,851,680.

The denial given by Whip J. H. Unwin, to W. R. Howson's assertion that $25 dividends had been repeatedly promised to "every adult in Alberta" during the election was made plain when Mr. Unwin pointed out that basic dividends are only promised to "every bona fide citizen in the province."

Peter Dawson recently made a powerful speech in Edmonton. Well, Peter Dawson was always recognized as powerful stuff. Ask Mike.

Guests included Mosslyn Hadwell, Malcolm Blake, Beecher Wilson, Ricky Harper, Bim Allen, Syd. Rodd, Ronald McDonald, Doug. Allen, Bert Harnier, Thelma Howe, Yvonne Howe, Iris May, Dicky Morgan. Betty Simister was absent through illness. Billy was recipient of many presents, including a real wrist watch.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN".

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this:

Important Engine Tests

Cunard White Star Superliner "Queen Mary" Subjected To Rigorous Inspection

Preparations are being completed for the important engine tests to which the new Cunard White Star superliner "Queen Mary" will be subjected before she leaves the basin of John Brown's shipyard, Clydebank, Scotland.

The rigid task of inspection, under the joint supervision of company and shipyard experts, is expected to occupy several weeks, although preliminary surveys have already been carried out. The four 35-ton propellers have already been temporarily disconnected from their 227 foot long shafts, and furnaces and boilers lighted, but every particle of the ship's machinery will undergo minute and severe tests in the yards before the actual speed trials, which will take place beyond the Heads of Arran, in the Firth of Clyde. Prior to proceeding on her speed trials the "Queen Mary" will leave Clydebank about March 24 next and proceed to Southampton where she will enter the new Southampton dry dock to be prepared for the trials some weeks later.

The speed trials of the "Queen Mary" will be conducted with the utmost secrecy. Not a single soul of the 560 carried aboard, except Sir Edgar Britten, the commander, will know just when the tests have actually begun or ended.

During the speed trials messages will be exchanged between the commander and the engine room in code instead of by telephone, giving details of the vessel's speed and behavior. These messages will be recorded in cipher on perforated tape, similar to quotations on a stock ticker.

For fear that the superliner may swamp yachts and houses on shore during these special manoeuvres, the speed trials of the "Queen Mary" will be carried out beyond the Heads of Arran in the Firth of the Clyde instead of over the usual measured mile at Skelmorlie, off the Ayrshire coast, or in Wemyss Bay. The "Queen Mary" will speed over her trial course 25 times, anchoring at night off the Tail of the Bank. Later, on leaving the Clyde, three further tests will be carried out. Stern tests to ascertain the ship's speed while going hard astern will be made off Land's End when sailing to Southampton. Manoeuvring trials will then be carried out to find the area required and the time the liner will take to turn completely around. Later there will be consumption trials in the Atlantic to discover the oil fuel consumption per 24-hour period.

Firm In Moravia Has Great Idea To Save Time

Heads of a concern in Zlin, Moravia, and their secretaries are to have their "office" in an elevator. Their office will be nearly 20 feet square, and the touch of a button will be enough to send it to whichever floor of the tall building it may be needed. There the doors will be opened, and the elevator will remain until all the required business has been transacted. Then the staff will resume their "travels." The amount of time saved by taking the fully-equipped office to where it is wanted instead of having to take everything to each office, is estimated to be great.

Senate To Co-operate

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen Says Both Parties Will Work For The Good Of Canada

Conservative members of the senate, now in a majority in the upper house, will not employ their numbers to the embarrassment of the governmental minority, but will co-operate sincerely, diligently and without prejudice in reviewing legislation. This was the assurance given to Senator Raoul Dandurand, government house leader, by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, in the senate.

In the past five years the Liberal senators had worked earnestly and helpfully with their Conservative colleagues. The latter were now in a position where they could reciprocate and Senator Meighen assured Senator Dandurand that this assistance would be forthcoming.

He believed all members of the upper house appreciated the necessity of co-operating for the good of Canada and was confident the senate's deliberations would redound to the credit of parliament and the country.

Mr. Meighen's observations came at the close of a brief speech he delivered in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Move Radio Station

Transport Station 70 Miles With Only Four Hours Interruption

The record-breaking feat of transporting an entire radio broadcasting station a distance of 70 miles in slightly under four hours "off the air" was reported to Edmonton headquarters of the Canadian Airways, Limited.

The job was completed by Pilot Archie McMullen and Ronald Ingre, operator of the Canadian Airways commercial station at Fort Rae. The entire equipment was transplanted to the permanent camp of Major L. T. Burwash's mining properties at Yellowknife river, north shore of Great Slave lake.

For the past three years, Mr. Ingre has kept the Fort Rae station in operation without a break. It is a 250-watt station and the movers battled 40 and 50-below-zero weather in making the shift.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 23

PEOPLE BEFORE PROPERTY

Golden text: No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. Luke 16:13.

Lesson: Luke 8.
Devotional reading: Colossians 1: 9-18.

Explanations and Comments

The Gerasene Demoniac, Luke 8: 26-39. A boat with Jesus and his disciples was beached one day on the eastern shore of the lake, which belonged to the Gerasenes, facing Galilee. Jesus was at once met by a naked demoniac whose abode was in the tombs. Such tombs were caves, either natural or hewn out of the rock, which were used as burial places. They were always outside the cities, usually in lonely regions, and because they contained the bones of the dead were regarded as "unclean". Syrians to-day believe that evil spirits haunt such places.

The man fell down before Jesus, crying, "What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the Most High God?" "The Most High God" is a heathen term for Jehovah found several times in the Old Testament and in the Apocryphal writings. It was acute mania which the man was suffering is probable from his violent paroxysms, indicated by his having been bound with chains which he had broken to make his escape into the wilderness.

The next thing that happened was the man cried as Jesus bade "the unclean spirit" leave him. "What is thy name?" Jesus asked. He sought to calm the man and gain his confidence, and by asking for his name to learn his real name. The man answered, "Legion," the man answered; "for many demons were entered into me." He then asked the man to let them enter the herd of swine "lying on the mountain" and Jesus "gave them leave." Jesus uttered the word "Go!" or "Depart!" according to Matthew's account.

The next thing that happened was that the swine, perhaps frightened by the loud shrieks and wild gestures of the man, rushed down the steep incline into the lake and were drowned. This may not have been the first herd of swine driven into the lake by his frantic cries. Many persons, rightly believing with Whittier that "nothing can be good in him which evil is in me," are troubled by this loss to the owners of the herd. The answer is that the good wrought upon the man and to the whole country side by the cure of one so dangerous far away outweighed the loss to the owners.

The keepers of the swine fled to report their loss, in the city and the country round about, whereupon the people flocked to the scene. They found the man sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed and in his right mind. Seized with fear lest Jesus might destroy other property, they besought him to depart from them. Jesus left in the boat for Capernaum. The man begged to go with him, but Jesus bid him to return to his own home and declare what great things God had done for him. The man obeyed and published the news everywhere.

Lunch Service For Coach Passengers

Restaurant Service On C.P.R. Lines At Nominal Prices.
The institution of a restaurant lunch service at nominal prices for passengers in day coaches and tourist cars on the company's fast, transcontinental trains "The Dominion" from Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver has been announced by Passenger Traffic Department.

The new service constitutes a distinct departure and supplements the work of an efficient organization built up through years of catering to the needs of the travelling public. In future passengers in day coaches and tourist cars will, through the Train News Agent, be able to secure appetizing quick lunch foods from the dining car. These lunches will include meat pies, sausage rolls, sandwiches, bread and butter, pies and beverages.

The Canadian Pacific Railway meal service now includes, the diner which has long been the standard for efficiency in catering, the self-service kitchenettes with which tourist sleepers are equipped, and the widely known and popular station lunch counters and restaurants at all principal points in Canada, and the latest quick lunch service now announced.

Supernumeration Fund

Civil Service Fund Shown To Have Large Balance

The civil service supernumeration fund had a balance of $46,654,000 on March 31, 1935, according to the annual report tabled in the House of Commons. For the fiscal year the contributions and interest amounted to $5,833,142. Annuities paid out amounted to $2,178,715, gratuities $69,000 and withdrawals $79,000. The civil service insurance fund carried 8,646 policies for a total of $25,672,579 at an annual premium totalling $455,522. On March 31, the fund stood at $9,435,319 and $168,990 had been paid in death claims during the year.

Dionne Quintuplets

Playground For Noted Sisters To Be Prepared This Year

The Ontario government plans to arrange tourist accommodations and a recreational park for visiting children near the Dionne quintuplets' hospital at Collingwood. Dr. Allan Roy Dufoe, physician to the famous baby girls, said a few days ago he expects 500,000 people to visit the quintuplets this year.

It is understood a small woods behind the hospital will be made into a private playground for the Dionne sisters, said to be outgrowing play in the hospital.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

—BY—
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

Roper Kilgo, the boss of the Rawhide and nearby ranges, who seemed to approve the plan, but was really opposed to it, had forced Soak Torney, a derelict mining engineer, whom Kilgo knew would be called upon to give his expert opinion in favor of the scheme, to reverse his earlier endorsement, and declare that irrigation in Boone county so far as Fleming's plan was concerned was only a new-fangled way to waste money.

The meeting terminates, but Buzz Hamilton and his sister, Helen, Link and Kilgo stay behind and Helen asks Fleming questions about his irrigation plan. This angers Buzz, who accuses Fleming of trying to influence his sister and, to his assistant, ruin his "spread." Buzz shoots at Fleming in an uncontrollable fit of anger, but Buster Townsend, Link's foreman, is shot in the stomach, and Fleming is uninjured. Buzz is arrested and sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Helen and Fleming form a partnership to provide irrigation for their own properties.

Fleming goes home and studies the plans drawn by Torney to learn whether they could be adapted to a smaller scheme suitable for his and Helen's land, and is satisfied it could be done. Feeling cold, he lights the fire and there is an explosion that wrecks the house, burns it and the plans and renders Link unconscious. He is rescued from the blaze by an employee.

(Now Go On With The Story)

They turned to see a short man in a fur-collared overcoat pausing in the doorway. At recognition that she was a girl he quickly doffed his derby hat. The man was apple-faced with a long pointed nose and a sharp chin. He bowed gravely and came forward.

"You're Mr. Fleming, I guess? My name's G. I. V. Berrens. Traveling representative of the Western Improvement Company of Denver. I—er, heard about a project Mr. Fleming is interested in, and decided to come out to speak to him. I must have been on the way when this—er, regrettable incident occurred." He stood beside the recumbent rancher. "Mighty sorry, mighty sorry," he started in, "but this peculiar husky voice—" "Mighty sorry indeed."

Link could not recall having seen the man before. Berrens drew up a stool and offered it to Helen. Then, tossing his derby on the stand where the oil lamp was, he thrust back the long overcoat, apparently joining his fat little hands behind him. Rocking back and forth, heel-and-toe, he smiled again and shook his head.

"Er—I am not selling anything, but ideas, possibly—one might say ideas, Mr. Fleming. So don't worry about that. Fact is, in your—ah, unfortunate condition of the moment you may, perchance be particularly amenable to my proposition."

Link's glance showed plain longing for the fellow to be gone. It had no visible effect on Mr. Berrens, however. Nodding and smiling from one to the other of them, and back again, he continued what sounded like a prepared speech.

"You are, I believe, interested in irrigation?"

"I reckon so."

"Right! At the Trailend Hotel in Rawhide I chanced to fall into conversation with one or two town-people. Mr. Otto Pieper, a president of the bank, for one. Ah—I gather that you and this young lady have discussed some irrigation project in common—together—while, one might say, is not thought highly of by other ranchers?"

"That's true, Mr. Berrens." The tussy little man exhibited a row of gold teeth. "Sir, the company I represent, the Western Improvement Company, is a powerful, well-financed concern. We are, as a matter of fact, interested in securing a small, interesting place where we can experiment. I am not trying to sell you anything, sir, except possibly an idea."

"Don't make I can afford even an idea now," Mr. Berrens. My ranch house—"

"Exactly!" Mr. Berrens beamed. His gold teeth gleamed. "This carbonizing of your ranch house is, I assume, a severe blow to a man of your apparent financial standing. Nothing saved, eh? Mr. Fleming, you are a sick man, sir. Tch! That such a thing should happen in this day and age!"

"A gentleman named Soak Torney was slain, I am told. Also, someone at the same time tried to kill you. This—er, fire seems to be of incendiary origin, do you think? At least, some miscreant seems to have placed dynamite in your stove."

"What I am getting at," he ended with dramatic suddenness and appropriate gestures, "is this: my company will purchase your ranch, sir. We don't want it for the cattle. We want it because Silver Creek provides an interesting opportunity to try irrigation and to study the results."

"But we intend—" Helen began. "With men trying to kill you at every turn? Mr. Fleming, why not accept a fair price and leave the country?"

The bunkhouse became silent save for the muffled talk outside and the impatient stamp of horses' hoofs. Link scowled as he looked from Berrens to the girl, then into space. Discouragement welled in him at realization that all Boone County was to see the irrigation scheme fail—actually hoped it would fail. Someone wanted it to the extent of attempting to kill him. The loss of the plans, the destruction of his ranch house—all this was warning enough. Could a man succeed in the face of such odds?

Thought of surrender was not a pleasing one. Link Fleming could not recall when he had surrendered before.

Nevertheless there was a difference between being courageous and foolhardy. He could sell out and go elsewhere, easily enough.

He gazed thoughtfully at Helen Hamilton, seated nearby, her graceful profile turned his way. Perhaps he would do her a service to scotch this scheme here and now. To persist, plainly, meant trouble. His pulse speeded and new warmth went through him. He would not make making trouble for her, trouble of any kind.

"How much for the Star Loop, Mr. Berrens?"

"Ha! As it isn't watered now, it isn't worth much. Fifty cents an acre, Mr. Fleming, and that's a very generous offer. Very generous, indeed!"

He thought a moment. With his steers and equipment the price would amount to ten thousand dollars. It was less than the place was worth, but that amount in cash meant settling all this. And the more he pondered, the more deeply convinced he was.

"Well, I'm not sure what stock to sell. Helen would be spared heightening the friction between herself and Buzz, in prison—between herself and Kilgo, who must have some grounds for expecting to win the girl."

Suddenly his mind was made up.

"Mr. Berrens, I'll take—"

"Wait!" The girl rose swiftly. Her eyes were bright and her face pale. "You shan't do it!" she exclaimed indignantly. "Why, Link, what makes you talk so?"

"But we can't get in any work now till spring. That means the cost goes up. And Helen, I'd like to get you out of this. Maybe we'll both be better off."

"Then you don't think we could build a dam?"

Fire-Retarding Wood

Chemically Treated With Compound

Wood Will Not Burn

Coinciding with the statement of United States builders and insurance men that the United States fire losses for 1935 amounted to 10,000 human lives and cost $245,000,000, comes a report from the National Board of Fire Underwriters containing an assurance that there is such a thing as fire-retardant wood.

The wood tested by the Board was red oak and maple which had been thoroughly and uniformly impregnated in pressure tanks containing ammonium salts, a fireproofing compound which, it is not perhaps generally known, has actually been procurable in Canada for at least two years. The treated wood is almost the same in appearance as ordinary wood but it is a little heavier because of the salt content. It is easily tooled and takes varnish well.

The investigators of the Board tested the treated wood under conditions that sent untreated walls and floors roaring up in flames while the treated wood did not burn at all but after a long period of exposure to the fierce heat was deeply charred. Not once, however, did the treated wood flame or add to the spreading of combustion. The National Board of Fire Underwriters' final verdict was that the wood was non-inflammable.

Tribal Sacrifice Dropped

Indian Medicine Man Could Not Find Pure White Dog

A bitter wail moaned mournfully in the caves of Cayuga and Seneca tribal longhouses on the Six Nations Indian reserve near Simcoe, Ontario, as the braves concluded the "feast of the white dog" with ceremonial dances and incantations.

Thermometers registered slightly below zero in keeping with the tradition the festival be observed on the coldest night of the year.

Custom demanded a pure white dog, "without blemish or spot," be sacrificed, but the Cayuga and Seneca medicine men could not find such an animal and dispensed with that part of the ceremony.

Tribal chiefs, however, led the traditional dances and offering of thanks to the "great spirit" for watching over the tribes during the year.

Little Helps For This Week

The things which are impossible with men are possible with God. Luke 18:27.

Unless the Lord had been my help, my soul had almost dwelt in silence. Psalm 94:17.

When obstacles and trials seem like prison walls to be I do the little I can do And leave the rest to Thee.

There are seasons when to be still demands immeasurably higher strength than to act. Composure is often the highest result of power. Think you it demands no power to calm the stormy elements of passion to throw off the load of dejection, to suppress every repining thought when the dearest hopes are withered, to turn the wounded spirit from dangerous thoughts and wasting grief to the quiet discharge of ordinary duties. Is there no power put forth when a man, stripped of his property and of the fruits of a life's labors, quells discontent and gloomy forebodings, and serenely and patiently returns to the tasks which Providence assigns? The mind never puts forth greater power over itself than when it yields its interests to God.

Real Rainbow Plant

Aster In German Garden Shows Four Different Colors

A "rainbow" plant has been found in a Hamburg garden. It is an aster in which four different colors are shown by flowers on the same stem. One blossom is white with a yellow centre. The other is a mixture of blue and red. Botanists explain that this is due to an irregular division of cells in the plant's structure.

A Lauder Story

Famous Scottish Entertainer Continued By Remark Of The King

Sir Harry Lauder, the famous Scottish entertainer, sang for the king and queen at the Palace theatre in London one night and later visited them in the royal box.

After leaving their majesties, Lauder met a friend just outside the door and said to him: "Good night, George."

"Good night and good luck to you, Harry," he heard from behind. Turning, he saw the king had followed him out. The monarch laughed heartily over Lauder's confusion—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Guelph, Ontario, citizens call Eddie Johnson just plain "Eddie" and treat him like the native son he wants to be. Though his fame has spread to the four corners as an operatic vocalist, For Eddie hates ostentation. He doesn't need it and never did.

Although his first efforts in Guelph brought mild appreciation from the home folks, there were others who recognized his genius and his rise to the top was effortless. He was the natural selection for the management of the Metropolitan Opera in New York when Manager Witherspoon passed away the middle of last month.

Yet he is the antithesis of popular ideas about an operatic manager. He is not dramatic, pathetic or heroic and prima donnas with emotional complexes will find it tough standing with Eddie. He never had a temperamental outburst in his life but it didn't escape his offspring, Florentina, eight, when Flowers were missing after her dancing exhibition at the Guelph Opera House.

He has a secret affinity for strong armed men and at fifty-five likes to demonstrate his boxing ability and talk about his idol, former heavyweight champion of the world, Jack Johnson. In fact Eddie might have sought a career as a squared ringer if his voice hadn't returned pure and sweet in his tenor.

He married Beatrice D'Arniere, daughter of Viscount D'Arniere, Portuguese composer in 1909 but she died in 1919. Regarding this continent the following year he has never exhibited an inclination to remain. His portrait was recently unveiled in his old school at Guelph in token of local appreciation and he donated $25,000 to the school board to further musical education. He loves his daughter, traveling, his home town and languages but hates to blather about money.

ABOUT THE LADIES

Women are what men marry as a last feeble attempt to put an end to the 24-hours-per-day pursuit which plagues his waking hours from birth till the day he finally is inveigled to the altar against his better judgment. When he at last "catches" a woman, he's caught.

Strangely enough, women also possess two arms and two, er—legs, but unlike man they are equipped with multiple minds—else they could not change them so often.

Woman was created from man's rib, which is why so many men dislike surgery—look at the mess the first operation got him into! How true are the words: "God created the world, and then He rested. Then He created man, and rested again. Then He created woman, and neither God nor man has rested since."

All in all, women may be divided into two classes, those who are married and those who would like to be married.

In woman's opinion, a man becomes conceited when he acquires enough intelligence to recognize the wiles and various modes of approach of the female of the species, and he becomes insufferably conceited when he lets them know that he sees their game.

Woman is born into the world with an unquenchable zeal to remodel man. Witness the number of women who say they married such and such a man "to reform him." If they forget this bit of hypocrisy and openly thank the Lord that they got a man at all, which they do secretly, the divorce courts would cease to exist. When they can no longer change their husbands, they start shifting the furniture around.

It is not a psychological marvel that a "soft, fluffy, violet-scented sweet little thing should enjoy kissing a big, awkward, stubby-chinned, tobacco, and bay rum-scented thing like a man." Woman is born with an inferiority complex and, although in some cases this is almost submerged, those who do not at present feel inferior to any man spend all their time praying to heaven that some day there will be a man come along to whom they can feel inferior. She is happiest when she is being dominated, vociferations to the contrary notwithstanding.

If you flatter a woman, she calls you a liar, while she really agrees with your statements. If you don't, she deplores your lack of observation. If you make love to them, they immediately try to stimulate chaste un-touchability, while if you don't they rush posthaste to the hair-dresser, cosmetician, and psychanalyst to find ways and means to make you make love to them.

If you believe everything a woman tells you, she thinks you are a fool, and she is right. If you don't, nine times out of ten you are better off.

If you are a steady he-man, one-woman type, she is thrilled. If you are just plain, garden variety of a male, she is still thrilled.

If you ask for a divorce, she will not give it to you because it would deprive her of somebody to hawl out.

"Better hate than sever."

If you ask her to have a drink or smoke, she yelps that you are a bad influence. If you don't, she thinks you're a stuffy old conversationalist.

If, well—anyhow, in spite of all the contradictions of character, men continue to marry women and women continue to marry men, as a hurried glance at the vital statistics will show. Perhaps some day they will learn better, but for the time being, nothing better has been devised.

P.S.—The author of the above has just left for an extended vacation in the more inaccessible regions of Africa—E.X.

First Scotchman: "I sat through that picture show three times last night."

Second Scotchman: "Why, I heard it was a terrible show."

P.S.: That's just it. It was so lousy I had to sit through it three times to get my money's worth."

Refusing a baronetcy because the sword might tangle in his legs when he is shot, he snowed off the slickwad, John Wesley Dufosse, a crusading editor with a penchant for creating statestimes, destroying politicians and slaying patriots to office.

A Tory by birth, he became a Liberal by adoption and a radical in spite of himself. Began his career with a carpetbag, distinguished himself by revealing a secret letter of P. J. P. Lacombe which changed Manitoba's politico-religious history and wound up with a walrus mustache that harmonized with a mop of indifferently combed hair.

He marched with Borden during the world war and returned to thrive on irreducible Canadianism. He thinks the Declaration of London and the Status of Westminster coexist with Magna Charta and the Declaration of Independence.

Puts the Crown's Pass Agreement in the same category as the treaty of Versailles. Has written two thousand editorials in an attempt to clinch his point. Uses a pencil to write even at the expense of inciting typesetters and proofreaders' wrath.

His word is gospel to many even though he has never consciously sought to mould Public Opinion. A bit bulky, a spot hairy, Editor Dufosse likes reading, poetry, politics, his favorite literature is listed as "The Impermanent War" and "The Tailors do their darndest at the Result is Futility."

Arthur, who was five years old, was being drilled in simple arithmetic by his teacher, who said: "If I put five candies in your hand, and you ate two of them, how many would you have then?"

"Five," replied Arthur.

"But," said the teacher, "how can that be true when you have eaten two?"

"Sure," replied Arthur. "Two on the inside and three on the outside."

Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance is the name. Police sixth extraordinary is the occupation. Vancouver, British Columbia, the habitat. Inventor of the most amazing instrument yet developed for crime detection, is his most distinguished accomplishment.

Inspector Vance, terror of criminals, the object of five deadly attacks by gangsters, has developed a "robot nose," called the Vancanose, which identifies suspects by scent; threatens to convict them without a vestige of concrete evidence!

Apparatus, a part of his $50,000 laboratory, is operated by spraying chemicals over the spot where the suspect may have stood. They rise into the instrument and strike a spectrum band. No two persons have the same spectrum record—hence identification as certain as fingerprints. Believes this scent guides bloodhounds.

Is now working on a theory that criminals can be detected by traces of nitrate left on the trigger of a gun by the thumb and forefinger. Has already discovered a way to determine how long an uncleaned murder weapon was fired. Is an expert on ballistic lore.

Was responsible for conviction of a man who robbed a beer parlor by tracing milk to the coils in his pocket. Convinced a jury that a Yukon butcher had murdered a woman by identifying as human blood, a stain found on his boot.

John Vance is so feared in the northwest that criminals have surrendered and confessed when they knew he was on their trail. Yet for all his genius he draws only $318.75 month as salary. He is over fifty years old and, although a decidedly poor business man, still has hopes of making a fortune through a process he has developed, intended to make gasoline go thirty miles a gallon instead of eighteen.

Believes he will die a natural death, although bombs, vitriol, nitroglycerine and dynamite have been used in his home to snuff out his earthly existence. Doesn't like people to tell him to Pull Vance or other fictional sleuths.

COURTSHIP RULES LAID DOWN

A rather interesting article comes to our attention while looking over the old files of The Enterprise this week.

A reprint article written by Rev. Edward Bernet of St. Nicholas Roman Catholic church in Wilkesburg, Pa., lays down a few rules of courtship as observed in 1906.

We would ask all Blairmore sheiks to look at themselves and see if they can comply with the regulations below. The Rev. believes 52 hours of a courtship long enough to determine whether two young people are sufficiently in love to marry.

In effect he said:

No courtship should last more than six months.

Men should be allowed to call more than once a week.

Calls should be limited to two hours, between 8 and 10 o'clock.

If after six months' attention a young man fails to propose marriage, the girl upon whom he is calling, should dismiss him.

Jerry: "Do you like badminton?"

Mabel: "No, I don't like anything that's bad."

What a difference a comma does make!

Canada's first and only woman member of the House of Commons is Agnes Campbell Macphail, M.P.

Elected from her farm home constituency at Gray's Point, Ontario, in 1921, she is, to speak plainly, sprung from the soil. She scorns the embellishments of society.

She cooks her own breakfast, wears tailored dresses and has the most notable voice in Canadian Parliament.

A former school teacher, she set her face toward wider horizons and threw her forceful personality into a political campaign. With black hair, blue-gray penetrating eyes, her voice and $600 for expenses she won her first campaign. A model T Ford transported her.

Newspapermen like her because her witty comments make good copy, not to mention her tirades against war, armaments, munitions manufacture, cadet training, smirking patriotism and big financiers.

Her pet aversion is lobbying. She considers it thoroughly incompatible with good government and would like to see some legislation that would reform existing penal situations, education, politics.

Not entirely an iconoclast she removes her hat when addressing the speaker and claims to be a Latter-Day Saint. Lives the simple life with her mother in a farmhouse at Cayton.

Mother: "No, lunch will not be ready for nearly an hour!"

Willie: "I guess my stomach must be fast."

What's Wrong With Radio?

What is wrong with the Canadian Radio Commission and its programs? There is abundant evidence that the governing body of radio broadcasting in this country is not filling the bill to the taste of Western Canadian radio fans. Discontent is heard on all hands when the subject is under discussion among users of radio in the three prairie provinces and press commentators, even those inclined to be more merciful to the authorities, are constantly poking the commission.

Dissatisfaction is not so rare in Eastern Canada, because, it is said, the residents of that half of the Dominion, who do like the C.R.C. commission programs coming over the air at the moment, can, with an easy twist of the wrist, turn to something more to their taste and bring in a wide selection from the best Eastern stations on the other side of the international boundary without interference from local stations.

In Western Canada radio fans are largely precluded from this consolation, due to the fact that the distribution of wave lengths in the west is such as to inevitably shut out reception from the more popular accessible stations on the American side of the line and particularly at those hours when radio is in most constant use, except for those few who are able to afford the most up-to-date models.

Unfortunately due to stringency resulting from a combined agricultural depression and world wide economic disaster of the past few years the great majority of citizens of the prairie provinces have been, and still are, forced to take their wireless entertainment from more or less antiquated receiving sets. Money is still too scarce to enable them to purchase the most modern sets, equipped with the latest refinements and they are unable, for the present at least, to tune in to stations on the other side of the line in close wave length to the local stations.

This is undoubtedly one of the causes of the prevailing dissatisfaction and is one which should be recognized and, if possible, rectified by the commission.

Another oft-heard complaint is that in the choice of its chain programs the Commission devotes too much time to highly classical music and too little to the type of entertainment which the greater majority of Western Canadians would sooner hear. In other words, it is stated that the programs are not well balanced. This great majority would prefer to hear a little more of the "jolly rollicking barn dance" type of music and more entertainment of a humorous variety than the Commission appears able or willing to provide, but at the same time they want this entertainment furnished by what may be termed "top notchers" and not by mediocre amateurs.

It is true, perhaps, that the Commission has dimly perceived its shortcomings in this respect and has made some effort more recently to cater to popular demand but in doing so has relied to a considerable extent on local talent of not very high rating, possibly due to a desire to placate local jealousies. In this connection it might be suggested that the commission might very well make more use of local commercial stations as an elimination school and select only those best qualified to appear on their chain programs with some provision for adequate remuneration.

It is generally conceded, too, that one of the factors responsible for the commission's seeming inability to cater to western requirements is the fact that too much of the revenue derived from radio license fees finds its way into the Dominion government's treasury and too little of it is allotted to the commission for its work. If the commission were allowed a greater proportion of this income it is possible that they might be able to find or develop sufficient talent to eliminate some of the criticisms to which it is exposed.

Then, too, the commission has been subjected to criticism from time to time for lack of initiative. A case in point is its decision not to make a Blairmore recording of the funeral services of the late King George for reproduction at an hour when the great majority of Western radio listeners could participate.

It is admitted that the problem is one which bristles with difficulties and that the commission has no easy task to perform if it should attempt to satisfy everybody, but one instinctively feels that it has not succeeded as yet in going as far in this direction as it might.

There is some talk just now of a new commission being set up consisting of only one paid member, the chairman, and an unremunerated advisory board. Whether such a change would result in a greater measure of satisfaction would depend largely on the personnel. The membership, if such a board is created, should certainly include one or more who are conversant with the western situation and it is essential that at least one or more of the members know something about showmanship as well as the technical side of radio.

Trans-Atlantic Air Mail

Regular Service Between Britain And Canada To Come Soon

Regular trans-Atlantic air mail services by April or May of next year is considered likely by United States postal officials.

Harlie Branch, second assistant postmaster-general, said: "Undoubtedly the first route would be from the United States to Great Britain, probably through Ireland to London."

He expressed the belief the existing air line to China would be carrying passengers by early spring this year and reported a branch route from Honolulu to Australia and New Zealand was under consideration.

Was Once Fertile Plain

Explorer Proves Neolithic Man Fished In Sahara Desert

Fishing in the Sahara was once a favourite pastime of man. This discovery was made by Henri Lhote, a Frenchman, who unearthed the first skeletons of neolithic man found in Africa. These men lived 10,000 years ago, he said, when swift streams, now dried up, once ran through a fertile Sahara plain. The young explorer, who passed two years digging in prehistoric dune-heaps in the southeastern part of the desert, analyzed the bone structure of the old-time fisher, who belonged to the Negro race. Vertebrae of fresh water fish as well as harpoon heads made from bone, showed a dried-up river bed nearby. This surmise was later proved correct.

It takes those good, old bile salts to make the bile flow freely and make you feel like a new man. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stomach really enjoying it. Etc.

The Real Issue

Can Any Nation Be Permitted To Break Treaties

The real issue between Italy and the League of Nations is not whether Abyssinia is uncivilized and blameworthy, or whether Italy has real grievances or not. The real issue, the real question, is can Italy or any nation be permitted to break its treaties and agreements and disregard all its obligations—can every nation be allowed whenever it has, or thinks it has, a grievance against another to be the sole judge in its own case and enforce its claims by invading another country and killing its people—the men, women and children—by machine guns, explosive bombs from aeroplanes—and even by poisoned gas?

Ship Without Rivets

River Barge Of Russian Shipping Line Electrically Welded

An oil-tanker river barge that has been added to the Lower-Volga Shipping Line is said to be a unique example of shipbuilding. No rivets whatever were used in its construction, the sections of the hull being welded electrically. The combined length of all the welded joints totalled 40 miles. The vessel has a length of 450 feet, a beam of 62 feet, a draught height of 11 feet, and a carrying capacity of 6,000 tons. By employing the welding method, a considerable economy in metal was effected. The weight of the hull is 411 tons, 75 tons less than that of a rivetted barge of the same tonnage.

Invention Makes Book Talk

Device Gives Seven Hours Reading To Sightless Persons

By means of the invention of a blinded World War veteran, a novel may tell its story to sightless persons, at one narration. The new device, called the "Libraphone," was perfected by T. O. Leefe, of Birmingham, England. The recording is on sound picture principles. By a system of multi-track recording 20 sound tracks may be run to and fro along a 500-foot length of standard sized film, making 10,000 feet of recording possible in 500 feet. Projected at the customary rate of 22 feet a minute, it will insure the listeners of a reading of just over seven hours.

Manufactured Feeds For Live Stock

According to a recent survey, ready mixed feeds for live stock and poultry to the extent of 198,055 tons with a value at the manufacturing point of $7,725,177 were purchased by Canadian farmers in 1934. Ready feeds led all others in volume by a large margin and accounted for about 70 per cent. of the total. Cattle feeds, principally by dairy cattle, came next, with 27,130 tons, followed by swine feeds with 16,252 tons and horse feeds with 4,225 tons. Sales of only 14 tons of sheep feeds were reported.

To Conserve Wild Life

Seven-Point Programme Presented To Washington Conference

A seven-point programme for wild life conservation was presented to the North American wild-life conference, at Washington, by Ira Gabrielson, chief of the bureau of biological survey.

Officials of the general wild-life federation, formed by the conference, said the Gabrielson programme would be used as a basis for its efforts to build up the game population in land planning.

The objectives were:

1. More land for the restoration and use of wild life.
2. Closer federal and state cooperation.
3. Recognition of wild life values in land planning.
4. Cessation of stream pollution.
5. More research into wild life problems.
6. Closer co-ordination of federal land administrative agencies.
7. Basic protective legislation.

T. R. L. MacInnes, of the Canadian department of Indian affairs, told what Canada was doing for the hunting Indians. He said 50 per cent or about 50,000 of the Canadian Indian population were dependent in whole or in part on hunting and fishing for a livelihood.

MacInnes said white trappers were encroaching on the hunting grounds in the northern part of the provinces formerly used only by Indians. He said hunting preserves had been set aside especially for Indians, and explained how the Indian problem of fishing and hunting had been handled by the various provinces.

SELECTED RECIPES

MAGIC HERMITES

½ cup butter
1½ cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup chopped raisins
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup chopped dates
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups flour
1½ teaspoon Magic Baking Powder
1½ teaspoon Magic Soda
2 tablespoons milk or water

Mix and sift together the dry ingredients. Cream butter; add sugar and well-beaten eggs, and vanilla. Then add one-third of the flour mixture, fruit and nuts. Add more flour and liquid alternately until all are used up. Mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased shallow pan and bake in moderate oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Big Mining Development

Over 400 Claims Staked In Great Slave Lake Mining Area

Over 400 claims have been staked in the Yellowknife and nearby areas in the Great Slave Lake mining field, according to A. L. Cumming, of Fort Smith, district agent and chief mining inspector for the Dominion government, who was in Edmonton recently on his way to Ottawa.

"We will see one of the biggest developments in years in the Great Slave region," said Mr. Cumming. "Just as soon as spring opens, extensive work will be under way. Several large concerns are located there and will be going ahead with development just as soon as possible."

"Because, sir," was the reply, "we had sugar and cream with them."

Salt Highways

New Method May Solve The High Cost Of Building Roads

Common salt may solve the high cost of highways. In an interview in Winnipeg, R. M. Rowat, of Windsor, Ontario, well-known Canadian research chemist, reports the successful construction of test stretches of "salt highways" at more than 12 Ontario points. Over 200 miles of these roads have been built to date in the United States.

In his interview, Mr. Rowat emphasized the fact that the development was still in the experimental stage. The aim is to produce a hard, durable and dustless road surface, using cheap materials readily available locally in most sections of the Dominion. Highway engineers refer to it as a "salt-stabilized road" and the material because of its appearance and wearing qualities is sometimes known as "salt concrete". The ingredients of a salt highway are gravel or crushed stone, clay and common salt, the last named in comparatively small quantities. He mentioned a test stretch in Ontario where 15 tons of salt per mile was sufficient for a successful road surface three inches thick and 20 feet wide.

The important factors in a salt-stabilized road, Mr. Rowat indicated, were the coarse aggregates (gravel or crushed stone) and the securing of proper proportions of the three ingredients. These proportions would be governed to a large degree by the quality and size of the gravel and would not only vary from district to district but might easily change in different sections of any one road being treated. Generally speaking, specifications could be drawn up to provide for the use of coarse aggregates and clay available locally in a given locality. The proportion of the mixture and the method of application were established by careful laboratory tests of the materials in advance and during construction.

In Ontario, there are now test stretches of salt highways on provincial roads including roads near Toronto and the highway route to Muskoka Lakes resorts. Credit for the original discovery is given, in large measure, to a Canadian engineer, A. R. Chambers, of New Glasgow, N.S. Seeking a solution to the dust nuisance, he remembered that the ceramic industry used salt with clay to improve its drying qualities. Applied the same principle to a section of Nova Scotia road and produced the first stretch, on this continent at least, stabilized with salt.

Figures Of Insurance Company Show Heart Disease Is Increasing

A Minneapolis insurance company's figures earmarked 350,000 United States citizens for death of heart disease in 1936.

The company's statistician, blaming the strain of modern life for the increased deadliness of heart ailments, predicted the toll would be even greater in 1937. Their forecasts were based on their mortality records.

"Heart disease," they said, "kills ten people every time a motor car kills one," and during 1935 accounted for 38 per cent. of all deaths reported to the company's claim department.

"The effects of the disease are not confined to business men carrying heavy loads of responsibility," the report said. This is demonstrated by the fact that the death rate from heart disease among holders of industrial policies, written largely among factory workers and day laborers, is almost exactly the same as for regular life insurance policyholders."

C. C. F. MOTION IS DEFEATED BY A LARGE MAJORITY

Ottawa.—The King government emerged from its first test of strength in the House of Commons with a majority of 200, recruited from "Liberals, Conservatives and Social Creditors."

By a vote of 208-8 the house turned down an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne and then passed the main motion without division. The amendment, proposed by J. B. Woods, C.C.F. leader, condemned the government for not presenting a legislative program designed to ameliorate distress conditions and distribute wealth among the people.

Each of the seven C.C.F. members voted for the Woodsworth amendment and they were joined by Agnes Macphail, who was re-elected to the house as a United Farmer of Ontario-Labor. Opposed to it were 17 Social Creditors, 31 Conservatives and 160 Liberals.

It has happened only half a dozen times in parliamentary history that an address motion has passed without division and it was believed the government's majority of 200 turning back the amendment was one of the largest in circumstances of that kind.

Liberals withdrew from the address debate, most of the time being taken by C.C.F. and Social Credit speakers. Charges that wheat exporters in Winnipeg rushed to the telephone to secure orders from Liverpool to take advantage of regulations of the wheat board will be investigated by the parliamentary committee that probes operations of the board.

E. E. Perley (Cons., Qu'Appelle) relayed the allegations to the house and gave his opinion they were correct. Finance Minister Dunning said they would be included in the parliamentary investigation but added his opinion they were groundless.

According to the charges, the telephone orders were presented the morning after Argentine boasted wheat prices to farmers a cent a bushel and before the Winnipeg exchange jumped its full limit of three cents. A regulation of the wheat board enabled exporters to fill overnight orders from Europe at a quarter to half-cent above the time Buenos Aires boasted its price and Winnipeg offered. Exporters, it was claimed, saw their opportunity to double their European orders which, because of the board's overnight regulation, could be filled below the market price.

The Saskatchewan Conservative said efforts would be made at the parliamentary investigation to establish whether the European orders were genuine and learn when they were contracted.

Inquiry Into Dismissals

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced in the house.

The inquiry will take place later in the session after the committee has been set up and a deputy speaker has been appointed.

Mr. King made his announcement after Conservative Leader Bennett charged a number of employees had been dismissed in breach of the privileges of the house.

Mr. Bennett agreed to the proposed investigation, providing Speaker Casgrain tabled all papers in connection with dismissals under his regime. Mr. King said Mr. Bennett would have to move for the papers in the regular way.

Grow Forage Crops

Change Needed To Place Agriculture On Sound Basis

Edmonton.—Sowing of earlier maturing grains and growing of more forage and grass crops are required to place agriculture in Alberta on a reasonably sound basis in the future, H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, told the Alberta Dairy-men's Association on the second day of the annual convention here.

Address by E. A. Howes, dean of agriculture, University of Alberta, on "Young Men in Agriculture Today" and a review of the activities of the National Dairy Council during 1935, given by A. C. Fraser, manager-secretary, Ottawa, were heard.

A total of 25,000,000 acres were seeded to grass in the United States last year, an example Alberta farmers could well take notice of, Mr. Craig said.

A new grass, Creeping Red Fescue, successfully developed in experimental farms here, was found to have a high "carrying capacity" for grazing cattle but did not rank as high as timothy in palatability. It was a good turf grass. The speaker stressed the value of growing grass and forage crops to maintain the fertility of the soil and prevent soil drifting.

May Sell Phone System

Reported Alberta Has Received Offer From Financial Interests

Edmonton.—An offer from New York or British financial interests for Alberta's $15,000,000 provincial telephone system is expected by the government, states Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of railways and telephones.

A survey of the system was made last month by engineers from the east who had no hesitation in expressing their commendation, particularly of the Calgary exchange and the accounting system of this department.

"While I have not heard from them since they were here on January 25, I have every expectation of receiving an offer," said the minister.

"What price would likely be asked by the government?" he was asked. "I don't see how the government could entertain anything less than $15,000,000, though I am not saying that an offer of anything less would be only wasting time," said the minister.

Abolish Slavery System

Conditions In Crown Colony Of Hongkong Not Satisfactory

London.—J. H. Thomas, secretary for colonies, moved in the House of Commons Britain's promise to abolish the Mui Tsai, or slavery system in the crown colony of Hongkong.

Graham White, Labor, asked what the government intended to do about "the unsatisfactory condition disclosed by the report of the committee of investigation."

Mr. Thomas said he intended to await recommendations from the administration of the crown colony before taking action.

"No one could read the report without dismay, and I have no hesitation in saying that definite promises were made very many years ago that we would try to abolish it. It will try to accomplish that," said Mr. Thomas.

The Mui Tsai system permits the purchase of Chinese children, male or female, for use as domestic slaves.

Legion Pilgrimage

3,600 Have Already Registered To Make Trip

Ottawa.—Registrations of ex-service men and dependents for the Canadian Legion's pilgrimage to Vimy Ridge in July, number 3,600, with the deadline one month away, Brig.-Gen. Alex Ross, Dominion president of the organization, said here.

Due to the problem of assigning vessels to the trans-Atlantic crossing no applications for inclusion in the pilgrimage will be considered after March 12, the date fixed for leaving representations from companies concerned.

A Double Holiday

Edmonton.—Growing in popularity, Boxing Day, which is the day after Christmas, will be a public holiday for the future in Alberta, under the terms of an amending bill which is now before the legislature. The measure which has received first reading, is an amendment to the Interpretation Act to provide for the double holiday at Christmas. 2138

Remain British Territory

Argentine Warned Falkland Islands Are Not Their Property

London.—The Falkland Islands, off the South American continent, remain British territory. In a written answer to a House of Commons question, Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, said "Great Britain had warned Argentina that the issuance of postage stamps showing the islands to be Argentine property 'can only be detrimental to the good relations of the two countries.'"

SOME CHANGES MAY BE MADE IN RADIO CONTROL

Ottawa.—Not only will there be a parliamentary investigation into the operations of the radio commission in the last general election campaign, but the radio legislation now being drafted foreshadows a complete reconsideration of state policy with respect to broadcasting.

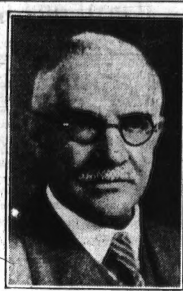

It is known that this legislation proposes to abolish the present three-man commission and put in its place an honorary non-salary commission of seven members. Under this new commission there will be a general manager who will be the real administrator of broadcasting.

Other considerations involved completely overshadow in importance these impending changes in personnel. Should the new commission be restricted in its activities to the operation of the national network? Should it confine itself to the development of programs? Should privately owned stations using more than 100 kilowatts of power be expropriated, giving the national commission a monopoly on all but purely local broadcasting? Ought the function of wave length control, the scientific end of radio to be retained by the new department of communications?

The old commission had complete charge of radio. It dealt with wave lengths, regulated stations, discharged practically to the full the government's functions in this field.

There is evidence here a strong body of opinion which believes that under the new deal, the regulatory functions should be retained by the department and discharged by a minister. This group feels that the new commission should be concerned only with broadcasting and running the national network. It is claimed that the department should be the umpire in disputes between the commission and privately owned stations, that it is unfair to subject privately owned stations to regulation by a competing broadcasting agency. The probable course of events is that the government will introduce its legislation and send it to a committee where a complete inquiry can be made.

CUT ELECTION COSTS

Mr. Harry Butcher, former M.P. for Last Mountain, Saskatchewan, who has been commissioned by the Dominion Government to investigate the problem of how to cut election costs to the advantage of the candidate, said the Canadian Treasury, Mr. Butcher will go to the Mother Country to study the system in operation there.

Oil Sanctions

Would Be Effective If U.S. Would Limit Exports

Geneva.—An oil sanction against Italy a committee of experts reported to the League of Nations, "would be effective" if the United States limits its exports to the warring nation to the normal level prior to 1933.

In its official report after weeks of deliberation, the committee expressed the opinion that if the embargo were universally applied and under conditions prevailing now, it would become effective within about three or three and a half weeks.

But, the experts reported, if the sanction is imposed by league states alone the only effect it would have on Italy "would be to render the purchase of petroleum more difficult and expensive."

Germany's Secret Police

Decree Issued By Hitler Makes Force All-Powerful

Berlin.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's gestapo, or secret state police, was made all-powerful in the reich by a decree issued ordering all administrative officials, from government heads down to city gestapo officers. Enormous power was believed concentrated by this decree in the hands of Air Minister Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who controls the gestapo.

The law orders district governors to take commands from secret police headquarters, which will, in return, supply the local police departments with such directions as may be desirable.

The effect of the decree is to ally the secret police more closely with Germany's civil administration.

Satisfied With Progress

Great Britain Prepared For Any Attacks From Air

London.—The admiralty is alert to the question of defence against modern aerial attack.

Viscount Monnell, first lord of the admiralty, told the house of lords that in the last few years combined air and naval manoeuvres have been held on a large scale as defensive preparations against possible attack upon the British Isles.

The manoeuvres, he said, had revealed valuable information for new naval construction, both with regard to anti-aircraft guns and hull construction.

Regarding the problem of bombs versus battleships the first lord of the admiralty said that all countries shared the opinion that air attack had not rendered the battleship obsolete. No country was abolishing capital ships.

The immense offensive power of aircraft was not being underrated, but Lord Monnell warned against exaggeration of its value. The bomb was not really a new problem but imposed the necessity of having guns firing vertically as well as horizontally.

"We are more than satisfied with the progress we are making with our anti-aircraft guns," concluded Lord Monnell.

Will Retain Colonies

Britain Not Handing Over Any Part Of Empire To Foreign Powers

London.—Britain is not handing over any part of her empire to foreign powers. Two specific questions on the point were put to J. H. Thomas, secretary of the colonies, in the House of Commons, one from a Conservative and one from a Liberal. Mr. Thomas, formerly Dominions secretary, answered both questions together. "The British government," he said, "has not considered nor is considering handing over any British colonies or territories under mandate." This statement provoked long cheers from government benches.

THE RIDDELL OIL SANCTION PLAN IS REVIEWED

Ottawa.—The whole of Europe might be at war today if the Canadian government had not repudiated and disavowed the Riddell oil sanction proposal at Geneva in November, Premier King advised the House of Commons.

The suggestion of W. A. Riddell, Canadian representative at the league, that oil sanctions be imposed against Italy as an aggressor nation, the prime minister said it was not the plan of the Canadian government, but Riddell's personal viewpoint.

The fact was, Mr. King said, that Riddell had been called to make no commitments involving Canada without express instructions but had not waited long enough to receive the cable before making his suggestions. As soon as the statement of Dr. Riddell's action appeared the government sent him a strong reprimand and Dr. Riddell explained he acted in good faith. This was true but he had embarrassed the government, embarrassed the country and embarrassed the whole sanctions situation at Geneva.

The government considered repudiating the action immediately but delayed as it wished to obtain a full explanation from Dr. Riddell.

Regarding the critical position then existing in Europe, Mr. King said, the time had arrived to make clear the proposal to impose oil sanctions was not Canada's proposal and not the proposal of the Canadian government but that of a committee of representatives at Geneva.

Sir Samuel Hoare, when British foreign secretary, had made the statement sanctions proposals were not the responsibility of any one government more than another, but were brought forward at committees. Had Sir Samuel made his statement sooner it might not have been necessary for Mr. Lapointe to make his statement.

Throughout the world, Mr. King said, application of an oil embargo against Italy became known as the Canadian plan and this fact alone made it necessary to repudiate it as an official suggestion. It was significant to note the sanction was not applied after the repudiation and a European war did not develop.

It would be a dangerous step for Canada, said the prime minister, to attempt to regulate a European war. Was that Canada's place at Geneva? he asked.

PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM AS A RELIEF MEASURE

Ottawa.—The government is working on an extensive public works program as an unemployment relief measure, it was learned. The main estimates brought down were intended to provide for the cost of government under normal conditions and extraordinary expenditures due to existing circumstances will be met in other ways.

Consideration will be given to proposals for public works which would directly or indirectly produce revenue. The government is not expected to agree to any considerable public works which would not produce revenue, such as public buildings.

Among the type of work said to be favored are harbor improvements, road building which would encourage tourist traffic and perhaps assistance to the railways to enable them to increase their revenues and compete better with improved travel conditions on United States lines.

At the recent Dominion-provincial conference it was suggested the Dominion and provinces join not only in the trans-Canada highway but in roads designated as feeder to this highway. It is expected this proposal will be given particular study.

Will Take Prairie Census

Census Of Three Western Provinces To Be Taken This Year

Ottawa.—A census of the three prairie provinces will be taken this summer, Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of agriculture, announced. Under the constitution, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are entitled to a census every five years. Subsidies granted by the Dominion to these provinces will be governed by this census. In the other provinces a census is required only every 10 years.

Negotiations were initiated by Mr. Euler with the three provincial governments this year in the hope the expense of a census, estimated at $700,000, would be shared. The provinces were very fair in the matter, Mr. Euler said, but on further study of the constitution it was found the count must be taken.

Race For Air Routes

Competition For Control Of Trade

Washington.—Warnings of an impending international race for control of trade routes of the air was voiced by the national advisory committee for aeronautics in its annual report to President Roosevelt.

"The foundations are being laid now for a world-wide struggle for the control of trade routes of the air, and for the control of world aeronautical markets," the committee's report said.

"It is becoming generally recognized that, other things being equal, a decisive advantage in this struggle will be with that country that has the greatest vision and initiative in establishing research facilities and in executing long-range research programs."

Textile Inquiry

No Date Yet Fixed For Hearings Before Commission

Ottawa.—No date has been fixed for the opening hearings before the Turgon commission appointed to investigate the textile industry, pending conclusion of court engagements now occupying J. C. McRuer, of Toronto, chief commission counsel.

Mr. Justice W. F. A. Tupper, of the Saskatchewan appeal court, appointed a one-man commission to conduct the investigation following the temporary closing of a rayon plant in Sherbrooke, Que., has been in Ottawa for some time making preliminary arrangements for the inquiry.

Receives Higher Grant

Ottawa.—Jack Miner will be able to take care of more wild geese this year than last. The Dominion government grant to assist him in his wild life conservation work has been increased from $3,500 to $4,000. The increase appears in the main estimates tabled in the House of Commons.

Appropriation Increased

Ottawa.—The government has increased by $2,500 the amount appropriated for the book of remembrance which will stand on the altar in the memorial chamber of the parliament buildings here. The appropriation last session was $5,500.
